

IMAGO DEI

The Sanctity of Life

For the week of October 26, 2025.

Life

Share about a possession you treasured growing up. Why did it hold so much value for you?

Think of a moment where the way someone treated you made you feel valuable, seen, or known. How did that moment impact your life?

When you hear that you are “fearfully and wonderfully made,” what emotion rises first: comfort? skepticism? curiosity? something else? Why?

Theology

How would you define “Sanctity?” What does it mean to understand the Sanctity of Life according to the Imago Dei?

The sermon emphasized that “the Image of God is not something we possess, it’s something we are.” How does that shape the way we understand the sanctity of every life?

What does it mean to “carry God’s signature in one’s life?” How does that shape the way we feel about; God? Neighbors? And ourselves?

When you think about Jesus’ ministry (touching the untouchable, centering children, dignifying the overlooked), which story of Jesus best illustrates the sanctity of life to you personally? Why that one?

In Practice

Who is someone in your life that is hard for you to see as “fearfully and wonderfully made”? What gets in the way of seeing God’s image in them?

If the way of Jesus is not where we stand as Christians, but with whom we stand as God’s Image, with whom is God inviting you to stand with in your life?

If every interaction is “an encounter with someone made in the image of God,” how might that reshape:

- the way you speak to people?
- the way you handle conflict?
- the way you view the marginalized?
